From Trainee to Director, Louise has worked in and with local government for over twenty-five years. Having led various cross functional teams, and with experience delivering planning and development projects within the public and private sectors, Louise is adept at seeing the big picture and influencing effective collaboration.

Louise enjoys working with passionate, creative thinkers on projects that contribute to the prosperity and wellbeing of communities.

Outside of work, life revolves around eating, drinking and laughing with family and friends. A self-confessed nerd, Louise loves learning and often has her head in a book or is trying her hand at something creative.
