Tom has substantial experience working on various large scale landscape architecture projects within residential estates in the ACT, as well as medium sized multi-unit residential projects. Tom displays versatility in his designs by incorporating large open multi use spaces for an incredibly wide range of users.

Tom uses his graphic presentation skills to focus on human interaction within the landscape, whilst incorporating a mix of existing and new landscape elements in designs. Complimenting existing landscape within projects is one of Tom's specialties.

Tom has delivered landscape packages from concept design through to construction documentation.

He is currently delving deep into 3D modelling landscapes using Revit and Lumion. Tom is focusing on augmenting the benefits in design communication using digital BIM software in conjunction with industry specific technical documentation methods.

In his spare time, you will find Tom consuming anything remotely to do with golf, often thinking of ways to 'improve' the golf course to match his preferred shots.
